transmitted in electronic and all other forms, including verbal, paper, film, or other types of media including email and Internet content.

COPP members, as persons associated with Manitoba Citizens on Patrol Program, assume the following responsibilities:

- COPP members shall exercise care and caution when printing, copying, sharing, storing or disposing of personal or sensitive information related to their members/group, COPP activities or partner organizations/agencies.

COPP members are expected to follow these best practices for collecting, storage and destruction of personal information:

- Collect only personal information that is the absolute minimum necessary to conduct the business of your group and only use it for COPP purposes.
- Personal information gathered while conducting COPP business such as patrolling, meeting, etc. must only be shared with authorized individuals for the purposes of conducting COPP business. In addition, personal information of COPP members must only be shared with authorized individuals with that person's permission.
- Passwords are not to be shared with unauthorized persons.
- Sensitive and personal information must not be discussed in public places or when on the telephone which could be overheard by an unauthorized person.
- Sensitive and personal information must not be left on answering machines, facsimiles, or voicemail systems that may be accessed by unauthorized persons
- Store documentation containing personal information, including shift notes, meeting minutes, group membership lists, videos, photos, etc. in a locked physical location and/or password protected electronic file that is only accessible by authorized COPP members or law enforcement partners.
- Personal information must be destroyed securely, by means such as shredding or file deletion. Secure disposal of information can be facilitated by a local police agency or municipal office.
- Patrol notes of past members are to be collected and provided to the local law enforcement agency.

If a complaint is received related to improper collection, use, disclosure, storage or disposal of sensitive or personal information the following procedure will be followed:
